You Say You Can't Advertise?

That's what others have said and all of a sudden found some competitor was doing what they thought they couldn't do. And getting away with it. Get the edge on your competitors by telling your story in an attractive manner so will be read. You'll get the results. We Are Anxious to Help.

VICTIM OF THE TIMES

Tramp—Yes'm, lady, women was the cause of me present condition. The Lady—Just in what way?
Tramp—Well, ya' see, ma'am, I used to earn a good living selling halibut, and when the dames took to bobbing their hair my business dwindled down to nothing and I had to take to the road.

One on the Tightwad

Mary—He ran into a streak of tough luck on account of his singleness the other day.
Ella—What happened to him?
Mary—Well, you know he saved the first dollar he ever earned and the other day he spent it, and now he's mad because a dollar isn't worth its full value.

Ideal Sport

Knicker—There's a fellow that is never bothered or troubled by his tenants. They never even kick about the rent.
Bocker—Lucky fellow. Where's his property?
Knicker—A cemetery on the edge of the town.

APPLIED OTHER NAMES

Neighbor—Your husband is very frank—calls a spade a spade, I guess?
Mrs. Suburban—Sometimes; but not when he's digging post holes for our new fence.

Zero in Things to Be

We'd hate to be a crook
Who's always being hounded;
And hate to be a drum
That's always being pounded.

Hal Hal

I hear Perkins had an accident.
"Yes, he has driven an ancient flivver for years and the other day he got a modern bus and when he didn't hear any noise he thought it wasn't going so he stepped out to crank it."

Ethereal

"What's become of that pretty young actress I saw last year?"
"She's starring."
"And the young fellow who seemed to be so devoted to her?"
"He's still mooling."

An Iron Whim

Friend (eying luxurios car)—But you don't mean to tell me you bought it just to satisfy a whim of your wife?
The Other (sighly)—Ah, you don't know her. She's got a whims of iron.

To Teach Him a Lesson

Stranger (angrily)—You're sitting on my hat, sir!
Old Gentleman (ditto)—So I feel, sir! And I hope for the future you'll wear soft hats and not these hard brimmed abominations.

DID IT WITH HIS LUNGS

Nervous Wife—My, John, how can you breathe that way!
Hubby (fat, wheezy and irritable)—With my lungs, of course!

Unappreciated Menu

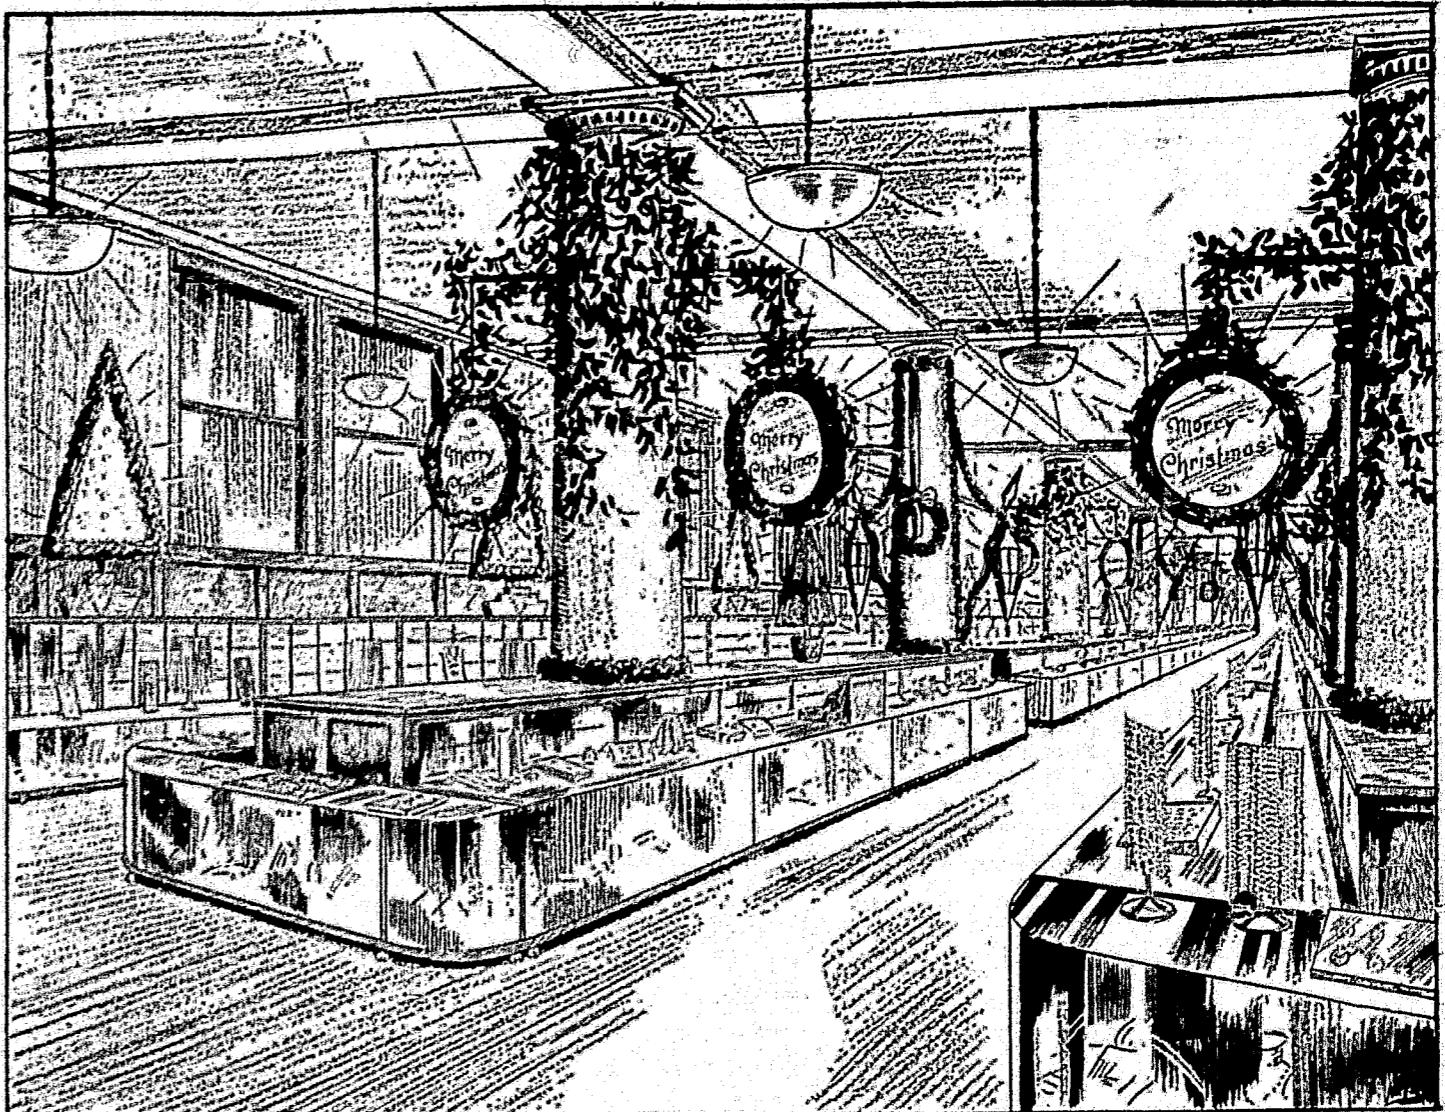

For supper last I was inclined:
The price I paid was plenty, sure,
I hung around for hours to find
A fat that was an epicure.

Makes a Difference

Blahs—I like to do things voluntarily.
Junks—Yes, I don't mind it if it is to get into a parking place, but it makes me sore when a policeman orders me to pull over to the curb.

Art

Artist (waiting in hell for friend)—You know, Williams is a year ahead of us other artists.
Landlady—Maybe so, but he's always behind with me.

Christmas Shopping is a real pleasure in this wonderful Holiday store

All through our new store, from basement to roof, the Christmas Spirit is the dominant note. Every way you turn, on every floor, in every department of this big and wonderful Holiday store, the brilliantly lighted display cases suggest hundreds of happy solutions to every gift problem, for each charming thing you look at whispers enchantingly "I remind you of someone you know;" "I uphold your reputation for good taste;" "I reflect your personality alone." Choosing so many hundreds of distinctive gifts has taken much time, special forethought and care. But it has been our aim to make this Christmas season—the first one in our new store—an event that will live in the memory of all who view this beautifully decorated store, who take advantage of its size and almost limitless varieties to shop in comfort and to best advantage for Christmas Day. Nor have we lost sight of that most vital factor, which at this season, concerns almost everyone—economy. In our quest the world over for the charming, distinctive and romantic, we have been mindful of those whose list is always lengthy by providing large assortments of quality gifts at very moderate prices. On the other hand, we have just as many gifts to interest those to whom price is no object. Visit this friendly Holiday store where cordiality and hospitality reign supreme—make the rounds of all the floors and you will find your gift list completing itself without effort and to your entire satisfaction.

Santa Claus arrives next Saturday with his real live reindeer

For many years, old St. Nick has made this store his headquarters. This Saturday he will drive right up to our doors in his sleigh drawn by the faithful live reindeer that bring him to Portland so swiftly each year from his far away North Pole home. If you can possibly arrange it, bring the children to see his arrival for it will often give them the thrill of a lifetime. Santa's real live reindeer in action.

Santa Claus will also broadcast from station WCGI, starting December 10th. He hopes all his little friends will listen in and write to him again.

It is located in the Basement and contains everything to make a boy or girl happy. It would take a page to tell all about its wonders. The children will just have to come and see it for themselves.

P. M. & B. gifts are doubly welcome

Because we have always specialized on gifts of the better kind, gifts that satisfy the inherent longing for quality and beauty which exists in every one of us. For 22 years we have followed one rule in all of our gift selections—always rejecting the cheap, the tawdry, the commonplace, seconds or imperfections—always retaining none but gifts lovely in appearance, of fine workmanship and materials. Yet our gift merchandise can often be bought for less than seconds and imperfections are sold for elsewhere, and quality for quality, we are never knowingly undersold.

These services lighten the task of Christmas shopping

Merchandise bonds—if you are in doubt about what to give, give one of our merchandise bonds, which will be honored at any time.

Merchandise to be held—you can make selections now and have the merchandise held for delivery at the time you desire it. Gold, silver, new bills;—These may be obtained at our offices.

Parcels, wraps and hand luggage checked at our information booth.

Wrapping of gifts—Much of our gift merchandise is put up in attractive boxes and folders prettily wrapped and tied, adding to the appearance of your gift.

10. THE HERITAGE of the conditions of said

SOUTH WATERFORD

Wednesday evening, Highland Grange of Bridgton presented the three-set drama, "Bashful Mr. Dobbs," in the Grange Hall to a fair audience. The play was good and well rendered. Mrs. Abbott's monologue was good, too, as well as the musical selections between the acts. A larger crowd would have been in attendance but for Thanksgiving preparations and gatherings.

Frank Stearns, two of our oldest men in town, have closed their farm houses on Blackguard and gone to Bridgton to spend the winter with Mrs. Claude Willard.

Orrin and Murray Brown returned to their home in Ossfield on Wednesday after working on the lighting system in our section for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Bion Pike had the banner Thanksgiving gathering in this vicinity when forty sat down to dinner in their home. All the children and their families were present except Mrs. Jerry Bellihan and family of Wilder, Vt., and Mrs. Nellie Woods and family of Bridgton. Mrs. Woods was unable to come because of illness of her children.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Hamlin had all their children and grandchildren at their home on Thanksgiving, twenty-four in number. This was the second gathering in size.

Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Hamlin enjoyed another gathering on Thanksgiving Day in their home when all the children took dinner and spent the day with them, fifteen in all.

Ethel Swett of Portland spent the Thanksgiving holidays with the W. W. Abbott family. Fred Burgess visited her while here and she returned to Portland with him on Saturday.

Merton Kimball and family enjoyed Thanksgiving Day with Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Savin in Albany at Mrs. Kimball's old home.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Maxim and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Holden of South Paris were Thanksgiving guests of Mrs. Holden's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Kilgore.

Mr. A. A. Monroe and daughter, Ethel, motored to Portland Friday. They returned in dense snow storm and it was very slippery. Mrs. Eliza Charles went with them to spend the winter with her daughters, Mrs. Ned T. Fox and Mrs. Seth Jewett.

Friends are wishing for a speedy recovery of Mrs. C. D. Tarbox, who has been quite ill with a bad attack of croupitis in her face.

Sunday morning Mr. Wentworth gave us a good talk on "Be Ye Strong" in mind, body and character.

The funeral of Mrs. Frank Sanderson was held Sunday afternoon in the Methodist Church. Rev. W. I. Bull spoke words of comfort. She was laid to rest in Elm Vale Cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Sanderson spent the early part of their married life on a farm on the Sweden road where their large family was reared. They afterwards moved to Mechanic Falls and when enfeebled in later years went to Massachusetts to bear near their children. Mrs. Sanderson had been failing in health for the past two years. Several of the children and their father were in town to attend the funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Greene entertained, Mr. and Mrs. Will Fliske of North Waterford, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shaw, her mother, Mrs. Margaret Taylor, and nephew, Claude MacKeen, and friend, Miss Ethel Chittick of Hyde Park, Mass., at Thanksgiving. Mr. MacKeen and Miss Chittick returned home on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hibbard and children of Bridgton spent the holiday with Mrs. Hibbard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Chaplin. Mrs. Barbara Hamlin was included in this Thanksgiving party.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Bradbury entertained Mrs. Ida B. Riggs and Mrs. Eliza Charles at dinner recently.

Mrs. Annie Bradbury, Lillian Kimball and Mrs. Ida Riggs dined with Mrs. A. A. Monroe and Ethel Sunday. It made up for the Thanksgiving dinner eaten alone by the Monroes.

Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Lilla Morgan and Miss Rose Harvey of Bethel, Mrs. Louis Kelly and Mrs. Besse Babson and little daughter Ethel of Berlin, N. H., were visitors of their cousin, Mrs. Susie Goodwin. Miss Harvey, Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Babson called on Mrs. Monroe and Ethel. Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Babson were pupils of Miss Monroe in her teaching days, and their call was a happy surprise.

Annie Hamlin, Annie Gardner, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Warren of Portland were in town for Thanksgiving day.

Frank Sanderson, Albert Ray, Kenneth Sanderson, George Sanderson and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. Skinner, all of Massachusetts, who were in town on Sunday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Frank Sanderson, had dinner at Mrs. Harriet Brown's. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Fields of Westbrook brought the two sons, Edward and Ralph Sanderson of Westbrook here and they were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kingman. The daughter, Eva, was unable to be present because of her small children.

This past week two deer were shot by Dennis Gardner, Horace Gardner and Carl Heath. This sport is over until another year.

NORTH WOODSTOCK

Another Thanksgiving Day with its joys and sorrows has come and gone and we are now looking ahead to Xmas. We who are no longer in the first flush of youth feel a haunting sadness when these winter holidays draw nigh and we think of the happy reunions we have looked forward to for so many years and from which each year some dear face is missing. As Father and Mother closed their eyes to their happy youthful days and made merry for our sakes, so let us not dim the joy of the children at this festive season but cover our aching hearts with a smile that they may look back, as we do now, to the good old days when we were all young and happy and carefree.

Future of British Nation Periled by Unwise Course of Government

By DEAN INGE, London, England.

The "bungalooid system" of modern life is responsible for small families and threatens the nation's future. The government is taking the cream of the working classes and educating them at the expense of the taxpayers, so that eventually they will be able to take the bread out of the mouths of professional men's sons.

That is not the way to fulfill one's duty toward the next generation. Those classes which are the best are not reproducing their kind. The better class of artisan is also diminishing in numbers.

Mr. Chamberlain, minister for health, stated that during the nine years' existence of this arm of the government remarkable progress has been made.

The general death rate of this country has fallen from 14 per 1,000 to 12.3 per thousand, and infant mortality has dropped from 89 per thousand to 70 per 1,000 in 1927.

TRAIL

NOT WHAT WE EXPECT

Most of the experiences of life are pretty different in realization than in anticipation. People of whom we have heard, distinguished and otherwise, are quite commonly, when we have a chance to meet them, very different from what we had expected. It has never been an trying an experience to have an infected tooth extracted as my friends and my imagination had made it seem.

Greaves is coming up to the hectic details of "hell week"—the informal or formal procedure which precedes initiation into a fraternity. His imagination has been stirred by what the sophomores have told him of their own trials of the preceding year. As time goes on his fears increase until he is prepared for all sorts of horrors.

"It wasn't as bad as I thought it would be," he admits when it is over, and then he prepares to frighten the next comer.

A group of high school boys was visiting the university and as a consequence was being shown through the various buildings and introduced to some alumnus or another. They entered into the outer office and looked in through the open door to where Judge John W. Redmond, and the Receivers of the Central Ver-

"Well, I didn't think he would look like that," one of them was heard to say as he walked away. Now whether he had found me more or less forbidding than I had expected I cannot say, but at any rate I was not what he had expected. I sympathize with the boy. I have seen a great many men of whom I had previously heard, from the king of England to Jim Jeffries, and no one of them was just what I had expected him to be.

I took an uneventful last fall for the first time in my life. I had none of the sensations either during the experience or after it that I had been led by my friends and advisors to expect. It was a much less unpleasant experience than I had anticipated.

Burden of Riches

There is a burden of care in getting riches, fear in keeping them, temptation in using them, guilt in abusing them, sorrow in losing them; and a burden of account at least to be given up concerning them—Henry.

Inspect Restored Central Vermont

An official inspection of the rehabilitated lines of the Central Vermont Railway was made by the receivers of the Company accompanied by Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railways and a number of high officials of the Canadian "parent" Company, including Vice Presidents Hungerford and Weldon.

The picture shows Chief Engineer P. D. Fitzpatrick of the Central Vermont (at right), pointing out to Sir Henry the work that was done at the South Roxbury detour. Standing next to Sir Henry is Judge John W. Redmond, and on the extreme left, George A. Galton, the Receivers of the Central Vermont.

It was at this point near South Roxbury that the railway and the Winooski River both changed their courses as a result of the flood. Nearly a mile of new track was built by the Central Vermont engineers at this point after the racing flood waters one year ago had torn away the entire embankment, forcing a railway detour.

The new line is an improvement on the old, and throughout the entire length of the damaged section of the road improvements in the way of heavier bridges and better road bed were installed while reconstruction was in progress.

As a result, the Central Vermont is now a better railway than before the flood and the receivers have been able to make use of a new and heavier motive power, thus operating the line more economically and giving better service to freight shippers.

The party which accompanied the receivers on this official inspection included some thirty officers of the Canadian National and Central Vermont Railways.

WHAT IT COSTS TO GOVERN US

By PROF. M. H. HUNTER
Dept. of Economics, Univ. of Illinois

The Cost of the World War
HAVE you ever heard that the World war cost $338,000,000,000?
What does $338,000,000 mean to you? For more than 75 years the secret for dyspepsia, constipation, catarrh, biliousness, headaches, colds, children's ailments. All dealers.

Many insurmountable difficulties, of course, arise when one seeks to estimate the cost of any war, to say nothing of such a holocaust as the World war. The value of devastated lands and destroyed capital can only be estimated. There is no way of definitely putting into dollars the value of a human life. Sorrows and heartbreaks which money could never repay must be left from the calculation. The economic loss from a lowered standard, both in this generation and as propounded to posterity is an unknown quantity.

One can be fairly sure of the number of dollars spent by the different governments. From the best calculation, the average daily expenditures of Great Britain in 1917-18 were over $33,000,000, those of France over $32,- 000,000, and those of Germany over $31,000,000. In December, 1918, the average daily expenditure of the United States was over $6,000,000.

During the war there was a tremendous increase in the amount of money in the different countries. This undoubtedly resulted in the rapidly rising prices, the burden of which was reflected in the world-wide expression,
"The high cost of living." Prices in 1919 were more than double those of 1913, and are still some 60 per cent higher. All those who have had to buy at the increased price level but have not received a proportionate increase in income are bearing a cost of the war.

Some 15,000,000 men, the best men, were killed or totally incapacitated.
What their inventive genius or physical stamina would have given to the world, no one can say.

The direct costs of the World war, somewhat inaccurately estimated, have been placed at more than $180,000,000,- 000; such indirect costs as one dares to attempt to estimate have been reckoned at $120,000,000,000, or a total of $300,000,000.

That the costs of the World war did not stop with the war is illustrated by the present expenditure of the United States. In the estimate of expenditures for 1928, the veterans' bureau is allowed a sum of $100,000,000, while vocational education is allowed $7,500,- 000. The item for interest is placed at $720,000,000.

On Second Thought

As he was passing under a ladder reaching up to the windows of a recently built house the frascible colonel was struck on the head by a large piece of putty. He seized the putty in one hand and, racing up the staircase of the house, entered the room from which it had been thrown. He was confronted by three stout, awfully,

"Who threw this?" he cried, angrily.
"I did," retorted the biggest of the three. "What are ya goin' do about it, eh?"

"Oh, I just thought I'd return your putty." —The Sergeant.

great many wise men cannot mend.

As a shining example of American dry humor, he offers this:

A stranger who happened to be in one of the New England states, being doubtful about his exact whereabouts, asked some one whom he met:

"Can you tell me how far it is to Harford?"

"Well, the way you are now going it's about 24,000 miles; but if you turn around and go the other way it's about a mile and a half," was the answer.

Another characteristic of American humor, declares Lord Aberdeen, is a sort of subtlety, which suggests an inference, not always too obvious, but which creates amusement even before or without analysis. A "perfect specimen" of this particular type of humor is furnished by a conversation overheard between two men.

"Do you play golf?" asked the one.

"No; but I can't give it up," answered the other.

has been called the "Liberator" in recognition of the heroic part he played as a valiant soldier and a wise statesman, in gaining the independence of Venezuela, New Granada and Bolivia.
He was a man of good birth and liberal education. During a visit to Europe he was seized with the passion for freedom and resolved to devote his life to the liberation of South America from the yoke of Spain. In 1810 he became the first President of the republic of Colombia, and in 1824 was appointed dictator of the newly formed republic of North Peru

livia, after his name. Unable to con-

17, 1830.

I

Will Teach
You To PLAY
the Tenor Banjo or Mandolin

To you who have so often remarked, "If I could only play some musical instrument," I now say, "There's no reason why you shouldn't."

Even if you can't read a note of music right now, you will soon be able to after a few lessons, and before you realize it you will be playing well enough to amaze your friends and relatives.

Just call me on the phone and I will explain how easy it is to learn to play, also of my plan to organize a Banjo-Mandolin Club here in Bethel.

CHURCH ACTIVITIES

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH
L. A. Edwards, Pastor

9:15 Church school. It is important that every pupil should be present for we are anxious to begin our preparations for our Christmas entertainment. Last Sunday we reached the high water mark in attendance, let's pass that mark next Sunday.

10:15 Morning Worship. Subject of sermon by the pastor, "Clothes." Do clothes make the man? Perhaps not; but they indicate one's station in life often. It is a great pity, however, that we exercise so great care in the choice of the clothes that cover the body, and so little for the garments of the soul. Should we feel the sting, when people treat us coldly, if our souls were properly clothed?

Comrades of the Way will meet at 7:30. Mr. Nadig will address the meeting. All Comrades are urged to attend.

Don't forget the Fair and Sale at Garland Chapel on Thursday afternoon, beginning at three o'clock.

Supper will be served at 6 o'clock. Price 35 cents.
